The Boy Scouts of America is one of the nation's largest and most prominent values-based youth development organizations. The BSA provides a program for young people that builds character, trains them in the responsibilities of participating citizenship, and develops personal fitness.

For over a century, the BSA has helped build the future leaders of this country by combining educational activities and lifelong values with fun. The Boy Scouts of America believes — and, through over a century of experience, knows — that helping youth is a key to building a more conscientious, responsible, and productive society.

Traditional programs such as Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and co-educational Venturing encourage young people to develop new interests and skills by recognizing achievements and creating opportunities for leadership and service.

Innovative Learning for Life and Career Exploring programs offer educational resources, interactive seminars and hands-on experiences that prepare students to become responsible citizens.

The Chicago Area Council annually serves thousands of young people with these programs. The Metals Industry Dinner is a key financial supporter of the infrastructure, programming and resources needed for a quality Scouting experience.
